PROPERTY TAX APPEAL BOARD'S DECISION

APPELLANT: Anthony Traina
DOCKET NO.: 04-22361.001-R-1
PARCEL NO.: 12-36-409-029-0000

The parties of record before the Property Tax Appeal Board are Anthony Traina, the appellant, by attorney Thomas P. Cerone of Elmwood Park, and the Cook County Board of Review.

The subject property consists of a 54-year-old, one and one-half story, single-family dwelling of masonry construction containing 1,546 square feet of living area and located in Leyden Township, Cook County. Features of the residence include one and one-half bathrooms, a full-unfinished basement, a fireplace and a two-car detached garage.

The appellant, through counsel, submitted evidence before the Property Tax Appeal Board arguing unequal treatment in the assessment process of the improvement as the basis of the appeal. In support of this claim, the appellant submitted assessment data and descriptive information on three properties suggested as comparable to the subject. Based on the appellant's documents, the three suggested comparables consist of one and one-half story, single-family dwellings of masonry or frame and masonry construction located within the subject's neighborhood. The improvements range in size from 1,625 to 1,786 square feet of living area and range in age from 55 to 62 years. The comparables contain one and one-half or two and one-half bathrooms. One comparable has a full-finished basement as well as air-conditioning and two comparables contain a one-car or two-car garage. The improvement assessments range from $10.88 to $13.08 per square foot of living area. Based on the evidence submitted, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject's improvement assessment.

The board of review submitted its "Board of Review Notes on Appeal" disclosing the subject's total assessment of $29,332. The subject's improvement assessment is $22,283 or $14.41 per square foot of living area. In support of the assessment the board submitted property characteristic printouts and descriptive data on four properties suggested as comparable to the subject. The suggested comparables are improved with one and one-half story, 54 or 56-year-old, single-family dwellings of masonry construction located on the same street and block as the subject. The improvements range in size from 1,192 to 1,565 square feet of living area. The comparables contain one, one and one-half or two full bathrooms and a full-finished or unfinished basement. Two comparables contain air-conditioning, one comparable has a fireplace and three comparables contain a two-car garage. The improvement assessments range from $14.29 to $17.45 per square foot of living area. Based on this evidence, the board of review requested confirmation of the subject's assessment.

In rebuttal, the appellant's attorney submitted a one-page letter highlighting various differences between the subject and the board of review's suggested comparables.

After reviewing the record and considering the evidence, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of this appeal. The appellant's argument was unequal treatment in the assessment process. The Illinois Supreme Court has held that taxpayers who object to an assessment on the basis of lack of uniformity bear the burden of proving the disparity of assessment valuations by clear and convincing evidence. Kankakee County Board of Review V. Property Tax Appeal Board, 131 Ill.2d 1 (1989). The evidence must demonstrate a consistent pattern of assessment inequities within the assessment jurisdiction. After an analysis of the assessment data, the Board finds the appellant has not overcome this burden.

The Board finds the appellant's comparables one and two and the board of review's comparables one and two to be the most similar properties to the subject in the record. These four properties are similar to the subject in improvement size, age, amenities and location and have improvement assessments ranging from $10.88 to $14.44 per square foot of living area. The subject's per square foot improvement assessment of $14.41 falls within the range established by these properties. The remaining comparables are accorded less weight because they differ from the subject in size. After considering adjustments and the differences in both parties' comparables when compared to the subject, the Board finds the subject's per square foot improvement assessment is supported and a reduction in the subject's assessment is not warranted.
As a result of this analysis, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds the appellant has failed to adequately demonstrate that the subject dwelling was inequitably assessed by clear and convincing evidence and a reduction is not warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
