ANALYSIS

The subject property consists of a 2,400 square foot parcel improved with a 116-year-old, one and one-half story, multi-family dwelling of frame and masonry construction containing 1,725 square feet of living area and located in West Chicago Township, Cook County. Features of the building include two full bathrooms and a full-finished basement apartment.

The appellant, through counsel, appeared before the Property Tax Appeal Board claiming unequal treatment in the assessment process of the improvement as the basis of the appeal. In support of this claim, the appellant submitted assessment data and descriptive information on four properties suggested as comparable to the subject. Based on the appellant's documents, the four suggested comparables consist of one and one-half story or two-story, multi-family dwellings of frame or masonry construction located within four blocks of the subject. The improvements range in size from 1,596 to 2,725 square feet of living area and range in age from 75 to 108 years old. The comparables contain two or three full bathrooms. Three comparables contain a full-finished or unfinished basement and three comparables have a one-car or two-car detached garage. The improvement assessments range from $7.99 to $13.97 per square foot of living area.

At the hearing, the appellant's attorney argued that the appellant's suggested comparables are similar to the subject in location, amenities and age. Based on the evidence submitted, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject's improvement assessment.

The board of review submitted its "Board of Review Notes on Appeal" disclosing the subject's total assessment of $36,732. The subject's improvement assessment is $31,825 or $18.45 per square foot of living area. In support of the assessment, the board submitted property characteristic printouts and descriptive data on four properties suggested as comparable to the subject. The suggested comparables are improved with one and one-half story, multi-family dwellings of frame and masonry construction located within three blocks of the subject. The improvements range in size from 1,564 to 1,686 square feet of living area and range in age from 113 to 118 years old. The comparables contain two full bathrooms and a full-finished or unfinished basement. The improvement assessments range from $19.08 to $23.59 per square foot of living area.

At hearing, the board's representative stated the board of review would rest on the written evidence submissions. Based on the evidence presented, the board of review requested confirmation of the subject's assessment.

After hearing the testimony and considering the evidence, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of this appeal. The appellant's argument was unequal treatment in the assessment process. The Illinois Supreme Court has held that taxpayers who object to an assessment on the basis of lack of uniformity bear the burden of proving the disparity of assessment valuations by clear and convincing evidence. Kankakee County Board of Review V. Property Tax Appeal Board, 131 Ill.2d 1 (1989). The evidence must demonstrate a consistent pattern of assessment inequities within the assessment jurisdiction. After an analysis of the assessment data, the Board finds the appellant has not overcome this burden.

The Board finds the board of review's comparables to be the most similar properties to the subject in the record. These four properties are similar to the subject in improvement size, design, amenities and age. In addition, they are located within three blocks of the subject and have improvement assessments ranging from $19.08 to $23.59 per square foot of living area. The subject's per square foot improvement assessment of $18.45 falls below the range established by these properties. The Board finds the appellant's comparables less similar to the subject in improvement size and/or exterior construction and accorded less weight. After considering adjustments and the differences in both parties' suggested comparables when compared to the subject, the Board finds the subject's per square foot improvement assessment is supported by the most similar properties contained in the record.

As a result of this analysis, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds the appellant has failed to adequately demonstrate that the subject dwelling was inequitably assessed by clear and convincing evidence and a reduction is not warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
