ANALYSIS

The subject property consists of a 7,470 square foot parcel improved with a 15-year-old, two-story, single-family dwelling of frame construction containing 2,682 square feet of living area and located in New Trier Township, Cook County. Features of the residence include two and one-half bathrooms, a full-unfinished basement, central air-conditioning, two fireplaces and a two-car detached garage.

The appellant, through counsel, appeared before the Property Tax Appeal Board arguing unequal treatment in the assessment process of the improvement as the basis of the appeal. In support of this claim, the appellant submitted assessment data and descriptive information on four properties suggested as comparable to the subject. The appellant also submitted a photograph of the subject, Cook County Assessor's Internet Database sheets for the subject and the suggested comparables and a copy of the board of review's decision. Based on the appellant's documents, the four suggested comparables consist of two-story, single-family dwellings of stucco, frame or masonry construction with the same neighborhood code as the subject. The improvements range in size from 2,253 to 3,178 square feet of living area and range in age from 13 to 109 years old. The comparables contain one and one-half, two or two and one-half bathrooms and a fireplace. Three comparables contain a partial or full-unfinished basement, two comparables have central air-conditioning and three comparables contain a two-car detached garage. The improvement assessments range from $30.33 to $31.52 per square foot of living area.

At hearing, the appellant's attorney argued that three of the appellant's comparables are located on the same street and block as the subject. Based on the evidence submitted, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject's improvement assessment.

The board of review submitted its "Board of Review Notes on Appeal" disclosing the subject's total assessment of $121,372. The subject's improvement assessment is $103,444 or $38.57 per square foot of living area. In support of the assessment the board submitted property characteristic printouts and descriptive data on four properties suggested as comparable to the subject. The suggested comparables are improved with two-story, single-family dwellings of frame construction located within one-quarter mile of the subject. The improvements range in size from 2,550 to 3,242 square feet of living area and range in age from seven to thirteen years old. The comparables contain from two to three and one-half bathrooms, a full-unfinished basement, central air-conditioning, a fireplace and a two-car garage. The improvement assessments range from $38.79 to $40.20 per square foot of living area.

At hearing, the board's representative stated that the board of review would rest on the written evidence submissions. Based on the evidence presented, the board of review requested confirmation of the subject's assessment.

After hearing the testimony and considering the evidence, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of this appeal. The appellant's argument was unequal treatment in the assessment process. The Illinois Supreme Court has held that taxpayers who object to an assessment on the basis of lack of uniformity bear the burden of proving the disparity of assessment valuations by clear and convincing evidence. Kankakee County Board of Review V. Property Tax Appeal Board, 131 Ill.2d 1 (1989). The evidence must demonstrate a consistent pattern of assessment inequities within the assessment jurisdiction. After an analysis of the assessment data, the Board finds the appellant has not overcome this burden.

The Property Tax Appeal Board finds the board of review's comparables one, two and four to be the most similar properties to the subject in the record. These three properties are similar to the subject in improvement size, amenities, design, age and location and have improvement assessments ranging from $38.79 to $40.06 per square foot of living area. The subject's per square foot improvement assessment of $38.57 falls below the range established by these properties. The Board finds the five remaining comparables less similar to the subject in improvement size, amenities and/or age and accorded less weight. After considering adjustments and the differences in both parties' suggested comparables when compared to the subject, the Board finds the subject's per square foot improvement assessment is supported by the most similar properties contained in the record.

As a result of this analysis, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds the appellant has failed to adequately demonstrate that the subject dwelling was inequitably assessed by clear and convincing evidence and a reduction is not warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
