

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE DECISION
ILLINOIS PROPERTY TAX APPEAL BOARD

APPELLANT: Brian Monge
DOCKET NO.: 07-01677.001-R-1
PARCEL NO.: 14-32-281-027

The parties of record before the Property Tax Appeal Board are Brian Monge, the appellant, by attorney Clyde B. Hendricks of Peoria, and the Peoria County Board of Review.

Based on the facts and exhibits presented, the Property Tax Appeal Board hereby finds no change in the assessment of the property as established by the Peoria County Board of Review is warranted. The correct assessed valuation of the property is:

LAND: $2,710
IMPR.: $12,090
TOTAL: $14,800

Subject only to the State multiplier as applicable.

ANALYSIS

The subject property consists of a one and one-half-story frame single-family dwelling which was built in 1900. The dwelling has a full unfinished basement of 682 square feet of building area. The dwelling contains 1,193 square feet of living area and is in "fair plus" condition and has a quality grade assigned by the assessor of C-10.

The appellant appeared before the Property Tax Appeal Board through counsel claiming overvaluation as the basis of the appeal. At the commencement of the hearing, the appellant's counsel agreed that the assessment appeal is comprised of a residential investment rental property wherein the market approach to value was employed to show the subject's assessment was incorrect. Counsel also acknowledged that the grid analysis data submitted on behalf of the appellant included land and improvement assessment information for the comparables, but there was no argument being made with regard to alleged inequity of assessments.

Appellant's first witness was William Leroy, who prepared the data presented in the grid analysis. Leroy testified that he is a full-time realtor with 25 years experience; during that time he has occasionally done "tax protesting" with the greatest workload in the quadrennial reassessment years. From time to time, Leroy performs this "tax protesting" work with Robert O. Kaiser. Leroy is not a licensed appraiser and does not have any appraisal designations. Based on his professional experience, Leroy contended that investment properties are generally harder to sell because they are in poorer areas, are generally not well maintained, and there is a limited pool of buyers who may be purchasing with cash.

Under cross-examination, Leroy addressed his fee arrangement testifying that his fee is "based on success" (i.e., contingent on the outcome of the appeal) if he does a "good" job he gets paid and if he does a "poor" job he does not get paid.¹ Leroy was also asked about the nature of the sales comparables which were presented: were these foreclosures, bulk sales, estate sales, sales sold by court order, or financial institutions.

On re-direct examination with regard to repossession resales, Leroy testified that any property that is listed and exposed to the open market where offers and counteroffers could be made for the purchase of a property would be a valid sale for consideration. Leroy testified that unlike in the past when reposessed properties were handled directly by the bank, the current practice is to have third-party companies handle the reposessed properties, which are advertised through the Multiple Listing Service thereby making them available and "on the market." Leroy further contended that as long as the sale was not between related parties, the sale would qualify as an arm's-length transaction, regardless of the number of days listed on the market. He did acknowledge, however, that the third-party company will reduce the listing price the more days the property sits on the market.

The second witness called by appellant was Robert O. Kaiser who assisted Leroy in gathering the comparable data. Kaiser is not an appraiser and has no appraisal designations; he was a real estate agent until March 31, 2008, but his primary profession is as a certified public accountant. Kaiser has bought and sold hundreds of houses in the local Peoria real estate market over the past 25 years through various companies he has owned.

As set forth in the grid analysis in support of the overvaluation argument, the appellant submitted information on three sales comparables. The properties were improved with one, one-story and two, one and one-half-story frame dwellings that were built between 1919 and 1926. Each comparable has a basement ranging in size from 624 to 1,032 square feet of building area, one of which includes 250 square feet of finished area. One comparable has a one-car garage and one has a one-car carport. The comparables have quality grades assigned by the assessor of C-5 and D+5 and are reported to be in fair or average condition. The dwellings range in size from 812 to 1,032 square feet of living area. The comparables sold between November 2006 and May 2007 for prices ranging from $19,000 to $28,000 or from $21.99 to $34.48 per square foot of living area including land. Two of the sales were repossession resales and the three sales were on the market from 63 to 153 days. Leroy further noted that at the time of these sales, the "days on market" reported on Multiple Listing Service sheets were from the most recent listing; had there been a previous listing of the property with another realtor without a sale, those days on the market would not be part of the reported "days on market."²

Counsel next called the appellant Brian Monge for testimony who indicated that he invests in real estate and has been employed in the sale of real estate in the central Illinois area for 11 years. As to the subject property, Monge testified he has owned this property on his own since 2007. Prior to 2007, Monge owned the property jointly with Leroy and in 2007 he purchased Leroy's half-interest in the property for $15,000 since these co-owners valued the property at $30,000. Based on this evidence, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject's total assessment to $10,000 or to reflect an estimated market value of $30,000.

The board of review submitted its "Board of Review Notes on Appeal" wherein the subject's final assessment of $14,800 was disclosed. The subject's assessment reflects an estimated market value of $44,551 or $37.34 per square foot of living area including land using the 2007 three-year median level of assessments for Peoria County of 33.22%.

² More recent practices require reporting "cumulative days on market" which would include the prior listing's "days on market" figure.

In support of the subject's assessment, the board of review presented descriptions and sales data on three comparable properties located in the same neighborhood code assigned by the assessor as the subject. The comparables consist of one-story frame or brick dwellings that were built between 1920 and 1927. Each comparable has an unfinished basement ranging in size from 894 to 953 square feet of building area. Each comparable has a garage ranging in size from 216 to 420 square feet of building area. The dwellings range in size from 894 to 1,122 square feet of living area. The comparables have quality grades assigned by the assessor of C-5 and are reported to be in either average or "fair plus" condition. These comparables sold between February 2005 and November 2006 for prices ranging from $60,000 to $72,000 or from $59.71 to $80.54 per square foot of living area including land. Based on this evidence, the board of review requested confirmation of the subject's assessment.

In written rebuttal, the appellant contended that as to both board of review comparables #1 and #3, the Multiple Listing Service sheets establish that these comparables have numerous updates and upgrades not found on the subject. In addition, appellant argued the differences between board of review comparable #2 and the subject included exterior construction, garage, fence amenity and location; at hearing, appellant also noted this property according to the Multiple Listing Service sheet had a "rec room in lower level" which was not reported on the board of review's grid analysis. Appellant also noted that each of these comparables has a garage not enjoyed by the subject property.

After hearing the testimony and reviewing the record, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of this appeal. The Board further finds a reduction in the subject's assessment is not warranted.

The appellant contends the assessment of the subject property is excessive and not reflective of its market value. When market value is the basis of the appeal the value of the property must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence. National City Bank of Michigan/Illinois v. Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board, 331 Ill.App.3d 1038 (3rd Dist. 2002). The Board finds the evidence in the record does not support a reduction in the subject's assessment.

The parties submitted a total of six comparable sales for the Board's consideration. The Board gave less weight to appellant's comparables #2 and #3 due to differences in size from the subject property and for one property, the additional features of a garage and partially finished basement. The Board also gave less weight to board of review comparables #2 and #3 due to their smaller size and superior attributes of a garage as compared to the subject. The Board finds comparable #1 submitted by the appellant and board of review comparable #1 to have been the two most similar comparables to the subject in size, design, exterior construction, condition, grade, and/or age. Due to their similarities to the subject, these comparables received the most weight in the Board's analysis. These comparables sold in October 2006 and March 2007 for prices of $26.64 and $59.71 per square foot of living area including land. The subject's assessment reflects a market value of approximately $44,551 or $37.34 per square foot of living area including land, using the three-year median level of assessments for Peoria County of 33.22%. The Board finds the subject's assessment reflects a market value that falls between the range established by the two most similar comparables on a per square foot basis and is significantly below the comparable with the superior feature of a garage. After considering adjustments to the comparables for any differences when compared to the subject, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds the subject's estimated market value as reflected by its assessment is appropriate and a reduction is not warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
